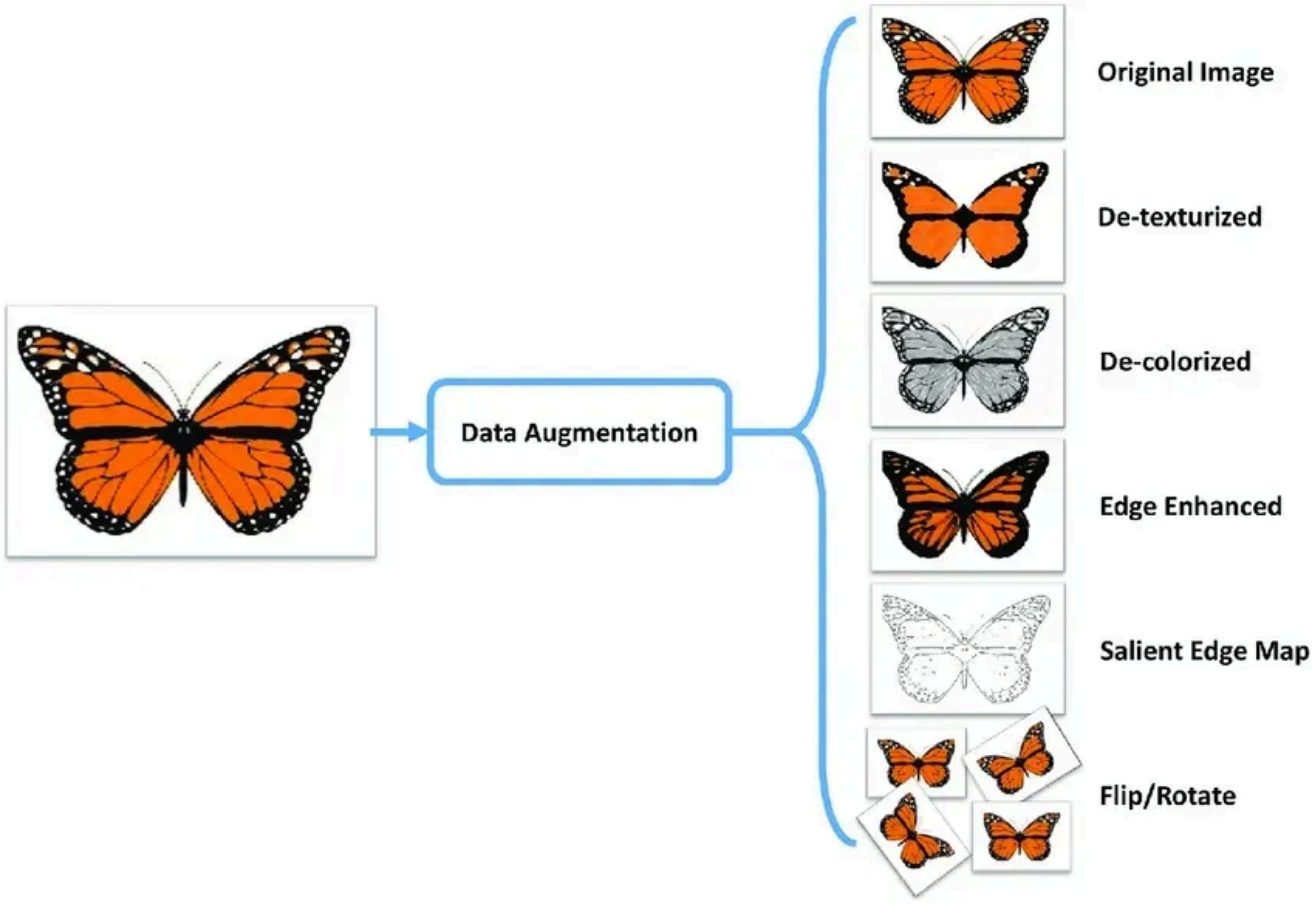
Data Augmentation

Augmentation = is the action or process of making or becoming grater in size or amount.

It is an important trick used in the image modeling.
It is the process of artificially generating new data from existing data, primarily to train new machine learning model.



The original image(leftmost) is distorted in natural ways to produce different images with the same class label. these distortions do not fool humans, and act as a form of regularization when fitting the CNN